Millions of Christians Don't Vote, Christian Group Reminds People of Faith What's at Stake

Election Day is Tuesday, November 3rd. Issues important to Christians are on the ballot, yet many may choose to stay home. Statistics show an estimated 40 million Christians typically sit out elections. Concerned Women for America is hoping to reduce that number.

CWA President and CEO Penny Nance told CBN News if believers would vote their values, America would be more closely aligned with Biblical principles. "If we would all actually show up, do our civic duty and vote, we could swing an election any way we wanted," she said.

Young adults explain why they go to church

As a group, they are attending more frequently these days and a new study by the Barna Group reveals that the most common reason for doing so is to pray. Young adults also say they go to church because they want to engage in worship with others, learn more about the Bible and “experience joy in Jesus.” Young men are more likely than young women to say they’re attending more frequently as are blacks and Hispanics.

[What churches are growing?]

According to a new poll by LifeWay Research, 63% of Pentecostal pastors report that their congregations are getting bigger. Next comes Baptist and nondenominational churches at 57%, followed by Holiness churches at 55% and Presbyterian-Reformed at 53%. Old Mainline denominations, including the Methodists and the Lutherans, are much more likely to be shrinking then growing while others have plateaued.

[Arizona man threatened with arrest for preaching at holiday festival files lawsuit]

An Arizona street evangelist is suing the city of Tucson and challenging an event policy barring religious speech after police officers threatened to arrest him for discussing Jesus at an annual holiday festival.

[Franklin Graham Sees 'Pockets of Revival' in UK After 800+ Turn to Christ in Manchester]

More signs of a spiritual awakening have been on display in the United Kingdom this month. Rev. Franklin Graham, who just saw a massive crowd respond to the Gospel in Manchester, believes God is up to something big, as many Christians are praying for a full-blown revival to hit the UK.

"I think you do see pockets of revival, no question," the evangelist recently told CBN News.

We are debtors, to proclaim the Gospel by the electronic media, as trustees of our stations. God has given us influence beyond anything our natural abilities or personal goals would suggest.

Highlights from Letters to Power 88

I just wanted to write a few words and send a small donation wishing it could be more. I love your radio station Power 88. I was listening to it every once in a while, and felt better about my life. Now I never change the channel and I feel like I can take on the world with the help of you and GOD. I'm going through a divorce now. Life was very emotional and hard a year ago. Now it is better because of Power 88 and keeps getting better every day. God knows I'm not perfect. I'm a work in progress and everyday I get closer to my Lord and feel better about myself."
